

CITY OF MANCHESTER, NEW HAMPSHIRE
ZONING BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT

In re Case No. ZBA2026-063 — 26 Titus Avenue (Tax Map 554, Lot 17C)

R-1B Zoning District, Ward 9

MOTION FOR REHEARING

Pursuant to RSA 677:2

NOW COME Nickolas J. Levasseur and Alison Famisan-Levasseur of 30 Mystic Street, Manchester, New Hampshire 03103 [and the abutters identified in Exhibit A,] and respectfully move that this Board grant a rehearing of its decision of September 10, 2026 granting the variances requested in the above-captioned case. In support of this motion, and in satisfaction of RSA 677:2, the Movants set forth below every ground upon which it is claimed that the decision is unlawful or unreasonable.

I. STANDING AND TIMELINESS

1. The Movants own and reside at 30 Mystic Street, Manchester. Their property [abuts / lies within 200 feet of] the subject parcel and they are abutters within the meaning of RSA 672:3. They appeared and gave testimony in opposition at the public hearing on September 10, 2026. They are persons directly affected by the decision within the meaning of RSA 677:2.
2. The Board rendered its decision on September 10, 2026. This motion is filed within thirty days of that decision and is therefore timely under RSA 677:2. The Movants note that as of the date of filing the City has published neither minutes nor a notice of decision for the September 10, 2026 meeting, and that the Movants have not been served with any written decision.
3. The Movants set forth each ground fully and separately below, mindful that under RSA 677:3, I, no ground not set forth in this motion may later be urged upon appeal.

II. THE DECISION COMPLAINED OF

4. The applicant, T & L 2018, LLC, by its agent Doug MacGuire, P.E., of The Dubai Group, Inc., sought relief to construct two townhouse buildings containing thirteen multifamily dwelling units on a lot having 49,484 square feet of buildable area where 78,000 square feet is required for the use proposed.
5. On September 10, 2026 the Board granted relief from six sections of the Land Use Code: §4.3-A.1.C (Multifamily Dwellings); §8.1.2 (Planned Development Lot Area); §5.3.1.E (Townhouse Building Type — Districts Permitted); §5.3.1.E.5.B (Maximum Height in Stories); §5.3.1.E.5.C (Maximum Height in Feet); and §8.7.2.F.2 (Parking Location for Planned Developments). The vote was four to one, Member Carnevale dissenting. No condition was attached to the grant.

III. THE GOVERNING STANDARD, AND THE DECISION'S STATED BASIS

6. A variance may be granted only upon affirmative findings on all five criteria of RSA 674:33, I(a)(2)(A) through (E). The burden of proof on every criterion rests upon the applicant, and upon the applicant alone. Harrington v. Town of Warner, 152 N.H. 74, 78 (2005). A failure of proof on any one criterion requires denial.
7. A board's findings must rest upon evidence in the record and not upon the personal opinion or private knowledge of its members. Condos East Corp. v. Town of Conway, 132 N.H. 431, 434 (1989).
8. "Unnecessary hardship" under RSA 674:33, I(b) requires special conditions of the property that distinguish it from other properties in the area. Conditions personal to the owner, and the owner's preferred or more profitable use, are not special conditions of the land. Bacon v. Town of Enfield, 150 N.H. 468, 471 (2004); Olszak v. Town of New Hampton, 139 N.H. 723, 726 (1995).

The decision's stated basis

9. At the close of the hearing the Chair asked Vice Chair St. Pierre to state the findings of fact. He did so, speaking without interruption for approximately two minutes, and then immediately moved that relief be granted from all six sections. The motion was seconded and carried four to one.

10. No other member stated findings of fact. No other member discussed the findings recited. A request from the bench that one of the findings be repeated was not met, and the findings were neither read back nor deliberated upon before the motion was put and carried.

11. Those statements are therefore not stray commentary from the bench. They are the findings of fact the Board adopted, by the same vote that granted the relief, and they are the only statement of reasons the record contains. If the findings are unsupported by the record, or are contradicted by it, the decision they were given to justify cannot stand.

IV. GROUNDS FOR REHEARING

Ground 1. The applicant offered no evidence whatever on RSA 674:33, I(a)(2)(D), and the only evidence supporting that finding was supplied from the bench by the member who recited it.

12. Member Carnevale asked the applicant directly whether it had obtained a broker price opinion to support its assertion that surrounding property values would not be diminished. The applicant's engineer answered: "so no, we did not," and offered to obtain one if the Board wished. The Board did not ask him to do so.

13. The applicant produced no appraisal, no market study, no comparable sale, and no opinion of any person qualified to give one. Its entire written submission on this criterion is that there is "ample buffering" and that the project "would not negatively affect surrounding existing properties." The buffer relied upon is approximately 130 to 135 feet of woods lying upon the rear yards of the Mystic Street owners, land the applicant does not own and which its own engineer conceded those owners "have the right to develop... or expand... or cut."

14. Approximately eight minutes after that concession, and in the course of reciting the findings of fact, Vice Chair St. Pierre stated:

"Also, I am a real estate broker, and I'm not aware of any circumstance where a development of this nature in Manchester has diminished a property around it. I've never seen a report or evidence of that. In general, reasonably well thought out development increases values."

15. This was not evidence. It was not given under oath. The Movants had no opportunity to cross-examine it, to offer a contrary opinion, or to inquire into its basis. It rested upon the member's professional standing and private experience rather than upon anything in the record. A board's findings must rest upon evidence in the record and not upon the personal opinion or private knowledge of its members. Condos East Corp. v. Town of Conway, 132 N.H. 431, 434 (1989).

16. The defect is not merely that opinion took the place of evidence. A member furnished the very proof the applicant had conceded, minutes earlier, that it did not possess; he then recited it as a finding of fact; he then moved to grant the relief; and he then voted upon the sufficiency of what he had himself supplied. The applicant's burden under Harrington was not carried. It was relieved.

17. That this was material is established by the record itself. The dissenting member had put the question of property-value evidence to the applicant directly and received the answer that none existed. The criterion was live, it was contested, and the only material before the Board upon it came from a member of the Board.

Ground 2. The findings adopted by the Board are contradicted by the testimony given at the same hearing, or rest upon matter not in the record.

18. The findings recited and adopted include the following. Each is set against what the record before the Board actually contained.

19. On-street parking. The findings state that the plan "reduces the need for curb cuts on Calef Road and preserves existing on street parking." Two witnesses had told the Board there is no on-street parking on Calef Road to preserve. Kate Markey: "Anything south of that, you'll notice if you drive there, there's big no parking signs." Jennifer Allard: "No one can park on Calef. You're not allowed to park on Calef."

20. The twenty-five foot buffer and the quieting of title. The findings recite that "the quieting of title on the paper street creates additional buffers to the properties on the north, whether through the applicant or the other neighbours' efforts," and that "there are additional buffers then beyond what the plan development requires in itself." Jennifer Allard had testified: "I actually got a lawyer and went to court and we won our half of the street. They didn't give us a half of the street. We won our half, they got the other half. So they didn't give us anything."

21. Her testimony is confirmed by the records of this State's courts. On November 4, 2025 the applicant, T & L 2018, LLC, filed a Complaint to Quiet Title in the Hillsborough County Superior Court, Northern District, docketed as No. 216-2025-CV-01014. The defendants are the abutting owners shown on the applicant's own plan sheets — Tran, Allard, Hall, Cecenas, the Helen B. Horne 2006 Revocable Trust, the LaRochelles, the Kennedy Family Revocable Trust of 2014 and Mount Zion Christian Schools — together with the City of Manchester. Jennifer Allard, Tracie Cecenas and Rasheed Chinn were obliged to move to intervene to be heard at all; intervention was granted December 31, 2025. The matter was resolved by a Settlement Stipulation approved by the Court on February 20, 2026, and the case was closed on March 4, 2026, some six months before the hearing in this matter.

22. What the settlement did is the opposite of what the finding describes. The applicant's Complaint prayed that the Court "quiet title to the southerly half of Bourne Street by placing title to the southerly half of Bourne Street in the name of T & L 2018, LLC." The abutters received only the northerly half, to which they were already entitled under the centerline presumption the applicant itself pleaded. Duchesnaye v. Silva, 118 N.H. 728, 732 (1978). Under Schedules A and B each Mystic Street owner took a strip twenty-five feet deep — between 1,131 and 1,250 square feet — and the applicant took 7,786 square feet, added to Map 554, Lot 17C. The abutter who told the Board "they didn't give us anything" was describing the record accurately.

23. The cemetery as a high density use. The findings recite "several other mixed or high density uses including the large development to the south, the cemetery and the Zion School." A cemetery is not a high density use, and the applicant's own engineer had told the Board that as to the cemetery "obviously no homes or anything will be built really in that area."

24. The enforced buffer. The findings rely upon an "enforced buffer" and upon "additional buffers... beyond what the plan development requires in itself." No landscape plan and no buffer design was submitted with the application. The City's Zoning Review records a Type 2 buffer as "Can comply," which states a possibility and not a proposal. An abutter had asked the Board minutes earlier: "There's no plan that shows how far back he's going to go. Is he going to go right up to that 25 feet and take all the trees there?"

25. Uniqueness measured against the member's own experience. The Vice Chair stated: "I don't think we've ever seen in my years on zoning another instance of properties that organically have such a large buffer." A comparison to every other case a member has heard is private knowledge. It cannot be examined, contradicted, or tested, and it was offered as the ground for finding the parcel unique.

26. Uniqueness of size. The findings state the parcel "is singularly unique in its size at 1.1 acre." The applicant's own engineer had told the Board, of the 96-unit development across the street, that "that lot is approximately two acres. So slightly larger than our lot, but obviously with a substantial amount of density on it." A larger parcel nearby also cuts against hardship rather than for it.

27. Traffic safety. The Vice Chair stated that "by removing curb cuts into Calef, I think we improve safety tremendously," and found the entrance to be "off of Titus Avenue, which is in general safer to turn on to than the busier Calef." No traffic count, sight-distance analysis, crash history, or professional opinion of any kind appears in the file. The comparison between the two streets was made by no witness.

28. Slope. The findings recite "a lot of slopes, including 18% that is undevelopable based on the city's calculation of the slope review," and the parcel was found to have "very unique characteristics" on that footing. The figure is the City's ordinary lot-area arithmetic. The Zoning Review for this application begins at 60,406 square feet of gross lot area, deducts 10,922 square feet of slope, and carries 49,484 square feet forward as buildable area. The deducted figure is 18.08% of the gross. It is not a finding, a study, or a measurement peculiar to this parcel; it is the arithmetic the Code [§] prescribes for computing buildable lot area on every sloped parcel in the City, applied here as it is applied everywhere.

29. That arithmetic cannot bear the weight the finding placed upon it, for three reasons. First, excluding sloped ground from the buildable-area computation is not a determination that the ground is undevelopable or that the parcel is burdened; it is the measurement by which the Code decides how much of a lot counts. Second, what the measurement left is not a constrained remainder: 49,484 square feet is more than eight times the 6,000 square feet the Code requires per planned-development unit, and roughly two and a half times the 20,000 square feet that five conforming single-family lots would require. Third, the applicant's own By-Right Subdivision Plan was drawn upon this same land after this same deduction, and still yields five conforming lots. A deduction that leaves a parcel abundantly buildable, and that the applicant's own engineer worked around successfully on paper, identifies no special condition of the land within the meaning of RSA 674:33, I(b). Bacon v. Town of Enfield, 150 N.H. 468, 471 (2004).

30. Tests the statute does not contain. The Vice Chair stated "I do believe this is the best plan for this lot," and framed his weighing as a comparison between the proposal and a conforming five-lot subdivision: "if they're allowed to do... those five houses, is that more in benefit of safety? Is it more benefit of the neighbors, of the spirit?" Whether a proposal is the best available plan, and which of two lawful developments a board would prefer, are not among the five criteria. The question under RSA 674:33, I(b)(2) is whether the property can be reasonably used in conformance with the ordinance.

31. These are not incidental remarks. They span four of the five statutory criteria, they constitute the whole of the Board's stated reasoning, and the decision was voted immediately upon their recitation without any other member offering findings of his or her own.

Ground 3. No special condition of the property was identified, and the hardship claim is contradicted by the applicant's own sealed exhibit.

32. The applicant's written memorandum states that the parcel "can support five (5) single family home lots meeting the underlying zoning." Its By-Right Subdivision Plan, submitted with the application, depicts five conforming lots, each having more than the 6,000 square feet of buildable area the ordinance requires.

33. At the hearing the applicant told the Board the opposite. Its engineer asked: "If you could have nine single family homes here by right and you can't get more than one or two, is that a reasonable use of the property?" Its principal stated: "the hardship is the steep slopes. We can't essentially build the houses."

34. No drawing, grading analysis, soils report, or cost estimate was offered in support of the oral claim. Minutes earlier the same engineer had conceded that the arithmetic runs the other way: "this lot would support more than what we're showing here, just physically based on buildable area divided by 6,000."

35. The Board was asked to disbelieve the applicant's own stamped plan upon the applicant's unsupported say-so, and did so. A finding of unnecessary hardship that rests upon an assertion the applicant's own submitted exhibit refutes is unreasonable.

36. Further, the only physical feature identified — slope — is not a special condition distinguishing this parcel. The City's Zoning Review deducted 10,922 square feet of slope from 60,406 square feet gross, leaving 49,484 square feet of buildable area. That is the ordinance operating as written. It leaves more than eight times the 6,000 square feet the ordinance requires per planned-development unit. A deduction that leaves a parcel abundantly buildable is not a hardship arising from special conditions of the land within the meaning of RSA 674:33, I(b). Bacon, 150 N.H. at 471.

37. What the applicant in truth advanced was that a conforming five-lot subdivision would be less profitable or less convenient than thirteen townhouse units. That is not unnecessary hardship. Olszak, 139 N.H. at 726. The applicant acquired the parcel as vacant land at public auction in 2024, a circumstance the Board may weigh. Hill v. Town of Chester, 146 N.H. 291, 294 (2001).

Ground 4. Relief was granted from §8.1.2 without any evidence or finding addressing that standard.

38. Section 8.1.2 of the Land Use Code governs lot area in a planned development, and was among the sections from which relief was granted. The applicant offered no evidence directed to that standard, and the Board adopted no finding that mentions it. Nothing in the record states what the standard requires on this parcel, by how much the proposal departs from it, or why a departure of that size satisfies any of the five criteria.

39. The departure is not marginal. The City's Zoning Review states the requirement for this proposal as 78,000 square feet of lot area for thirteen dwelling units, which is 6,000 square feet per unit, and states the lot has 49,484 square feet of buildable area. At the standard the City itself applied, this lot supports eight units. Thirteen were granted.

40. The lot area itself warrants examination on rehearing. The By-Right Subdivision Plan gives the applicant's title as Book 9788, Page 1181, the deed of July 10, 2024. By the applicant's own pleading in Hillsborough County Superior Court No. 216-2025-CV-01014, the parcel conveyed by that deed was "abutted entirely by the land known as Bourne Street" — it ran to the street and did not include it. The 7,786 square feet of former Bourne Street vested in the applicant by the Court's order of February 20, 2026 is nonetheless carried within the 60,406 square feet the plan depicts. The instrument establishing that boundary is not in the file, and the lot area on which every calculation rests therefore cannot be verified against the title the plan cites.

41. What the applicant did offer on density was directed to the standards of the R-M district, under which it asserted seventeen units would be permitted, and to the heights allowed for townhouses in districts where townhouses are permitted. This parcel lies in neither. An argument that a parcel should be governed by the standards of a different district is an argument for reclassification under RSA 675, a legislative act of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen. It is not evidence upon any of the five criteria, and this Board has no jurisdiction to grant it.

Ground 5. The variances are contrary to the public interest and violate the spirit of the ordinance, RSA 674:33, I(a)(2)(A) and (B).

42. The stated intent of the R-1B district under Table 3.3-A of the Land Use Code is "to maintain higher-density neighborhoods of single-family, detached dwellings." The applicant quoted the first half of that sentence and omitted the operative half.

43. The findings describe the area as a "transitional area." That is not a designation this parcel carries. Table 3.3-A assigns the transitional role to the R-2 district, which "forms a loose band around the more densely developed areas of the City, transitioning between mixed-use centers and the lower densities of the single-family districts." Deciding the case as though the parcel were in R-2 applies the wrong district's purpose.

44. Granting a use the district does not permit, in a building type the district does not permit, at a density twice what the planned-development standard allows, upon a lot with 63% of the required area, alters the essential character of the locality and conflicts with the ordinance's basic objectives to a marked degree.

Ground 6. Substantial justice was not weighed, RSA 674:33, I(a)(2)(C).

45. The applicant's entire written showing on this criterion is that "[t]he benefits to the applicant in constructing residential which is far more conducive to the property provides substantial justice." The governing question is whether any loss to the individual is outweighed by a gain to the general public. The applicant weighed only its own benefit, which is the one interest this criterion does not measure. The showing is also self-defeating: on the applicant's own plan the parcel yields five conforming lots, so there is no loss to weigh.

Ground 7. Preserved: the Board applied a different standard to comparable applications heard the same evening.

46. The Movants state this ground to preserve it under RSA 677:3, I, and do not urge it as the principal basis for rehearing.

47. In Case No. ZBA2026-078 (26 Sullivan Street), heard the same evening, the Board declined to vote upon requested variances because an elevation on the applicant's plan set was mislabeled, a member stating that he was "not comfortable voting on anything that's been represented here on paper" and "not comfortable... granting variances on something that's incomplete." The case was continued. In the present case the applicant's oral hardship claim was contradicted by its own sealed subdivision plan, and no continuance was sought or granted.

48. In Case No. ZBA2026-080 (374 Thornton Street), also heard the same evening, the same slope provision reduced a parcel to 1,812 square feet of buildable area out of 13,955 square feet gross — a deduction of 87% — and relief was required because the remainder fell below the minimum. Here the deduction was 18% and left 49,484 square feet. The applicant in that case stated in its written narrative that “[t]he intent of the steep slope section of the ordinance is to prevent creating lots that cannot be built on.”

V. THE RECORD

49. The Movants incorporate by reference the complete case file in ZBA2026-063, including the application, the Zoning Review, the By-Right Subdivision Plan, the applicant's memorandum of May 20, 2026, and the City's audio and video recording of the public hearing of September 10, 2026. Quotations above are drawn from that recording. The Movants have requested the recording and the written decision under RSA 91-A and reserve the right to supplement this motion upon their production.

VI. RELIEF REQUESTED

WHEREFORE, the Movants respectfully request that this Board:

- A. Grant a rehearing of its decision of September 10, 2026 in Case No. ZBA2026-063;
- B. Upon rehearing, require the applicant to carry its burden on each of the five criteria of RSA 674:33, I(a)(2), and in particular to produce competent evidence on the effect of the proposal upon surrounding property values;
- C. Require that any finding of unnecessary hardship identify the special condition of the property relied upon, and reconcile that finding with the applicant's own By-Right Subdivision Plan;
- D. Determine the lot area of Map 554, Lot 17C exclusive of the 7,786 square feet vested in the applicant by the order of February 20, 2026 in Hillsborough County Superior Court No. 216-2025-CV-01014, and address §8.1.2 of the Land Use Code upon that determination;
- E. State, upon the record, the evidentiary basis for each finding of fact adopted in support of any grant, and in particular for any finding that surrounding property values will not be diminished; and
- F. Consider whether a member who supplied the only evidence upon a contested criterion, recited it as a finding, and moved the relief, should participate in the reconsideration of that finding; and
- G. Grant such further relief as is just.

Respectfully submitted,
